Fall Books

JUD YOHO, the enterprising businessman who, in 1912, put Seattle on the national map when he launched Bungalow Magazine, encouraged his reader to "become the Bungalow Man of your Town." Thousands did just that. Nearly a century later, Paul Duchscherer, author of "The Bungalow," "Inside the Bungalow" and "Outside the Bungalow," has earned his place as "Bungalow Man" to a generation of homeowners and those who wish they could afford one of those quaint, cozy cottages.

Just when you think there can't possibly be another book on the topic, Duchscherer and photographer Linda Svendsen have teamed up, once again, to provide insight into this common

FROM RUSTIC TO refined

"BEYOND THE BUNGALOW"

This ca. 1910 home in Spokane's South Hill neighborhood was built against volcanic basalt boulders, the same stone used for the porch pillars.

"BEYOND THE BUNGALOW"

This Seattle house (ca. 1915) sports a Mission Revival curved and stepped parapet.

"BEYOND THE BUNGALOW"

The Swiss Chalet style introduced in Spokane by architect Kirtland Cutter was incorporated into this house designed and built by Karl Koerner in 1911.

Learn and be inspired at the fair

HISTORIC SEATTLE'S ninth annual Bungalow Fair and Arts & Crafts Lectures this weekend presents more than 50 craftspeople in metal, tile, glass, textiles, ceramics and lighting, antique dealers, architects and interior designers. The show and sale is an opportunity to learn about early-20th-century architecture and design. Lecturers are: Megan Thomas, curator of metalwork at the Victoria and Albert Museum (co-sponsored by Royal Oak Foundation), on C.R. Ashbee and the Arts & Crafts; John Burrows on Colonial Revival and Arts & Crafts homes; and Margaret Minnick on furniture handcrafted for the proper house.

The fair is at Town Hall, 1119 Eighth Ave. Admission is $10; lectures are $10 each. For hours and other information check www.historicseattle.org or 206-622-6952.
